OSWALD'S RIGHTS - BEEORE THE COMMISSION

After examination of a considerable number of depositions and an extensive amount of testimony, I have for the first time found a case in which one of the lawyers allegedly representing Oswald's interest before the Commission interjected himself into the hearing. It is in Vol. IV, on p.19. Here, during a discussion of fingerprints and especially one "lifted" from the bag, Exhibit 142, Mr. Murray interrupted to suggest to the Chairman "Since the print on the bag may become obliterated, and since members of the Commissinn have already seen it, it might be advisable to put on the record that they have seen it, because in time to come it may not be visible to anybody."

Who does he represent??
